Children's Guide

This booklet belongs to:

Adopters for Adoption aim to help families understand each other and get on well together.

If Adopters for Adoption provide support services to you and you family, we will:

- Talk to you about how we can help
- Talk to your family about what help they need. We might need to talk to other people that know you, such as your teachers or social worker
- We will create a Support Plan together that states exactly what we will do to help you. We will review the support together to talk about how it is going and whether we need to change anything.

Sometimes we might have to share things that you tell us with others, especially if we're worried about keeping you safe.

These are just some of the other people who might help you, if you can think of others, write them in the circles!

Social Workers
Support you and your family and help you see each other's point of view

Parents
Look after you and keep you safe

Teachers
Help you to learn

Family Support Workers
Work with you and your family to try and make things easier for you all

Therapists
Help you to talk about and understand your feelings

If you are not happy with Adopters for Adoption for any reason, or you want to talk to them about anything, their number is:
